State Health Board Calls for Rigid Care; Councillor Would Close Boston Schools

A warning by the State Board of Health that Spanish influenza is one of the most readily transmitted of infectious diseases, and a request by Councillor Lewis R. Sullivan of Boston that the Boston schools be closed, were important developments today in the influenza epidemic.

The State Board of Health has warned heads of departments of the State House to send home all employees who show signs of the disease. Councillor Sullivan, who asks the school board to close the schools, has four children ill from influenza. He says the schools were closed last winter owing to coal shortage and should be closed now "to protect the health of the little pupils that don't know how to protect their own health."

EASILY TRANSMITTED. Secretary of State Albert P. Langley and Treasurer Charles I. Burleigh, as members of the State House Commission, asked department heads to send home employees showing indication of influenza, basing their request upon a letter received from Bernard W. Carey, epidemiologist of the State Department of Health, in which he says:

"In reply to your request relative to the outbreak of influenza, we desire to give you the following information: "Influenza is a markedly infectious condition, being perhaps one of the most readily transmitted, by personal contact of any of the infectious diseases. The incubation period is approximately 2 to 4 days."

REPORT CONGRESSMAN MANN'S SON A SICK

Chicago, Sept. 19.—James R. Mann, 76, said by the police to be a son of Congressman and Mrs. Mann, shot and killed himself here today. Mann was twenty-eight years old. At the board of the house where the act was committed he left two notes, one to his handmaid, the other to Mrs. James Mann. Highland Apartments, Washington, D. C. It is the latter note which led the police to believe he was the son of the Republican floor leader of the House. Before sending the bullet through his brain Mann shot his dog, which had been his constant companion. Tuberculosis was the cause of his death given in one of his notes.

Mrs. Harold Dodd of New York, the first woman radio operator and inspector in Northeastern army district, qualified for work today. She will be one of six women for this war service.

Her rank is sergeant and she wears three stripes on the left arm of her uniform. Upon the shoulder are the words: "Radio Corps."

BROKEN LINE SAVED BY HUB CAPTAIN

With the American Army in France (by mail), Sept. 1.—For more than six hours a company of American engineers, commanded by a captain from Boston, Mass., held a portion of the Franco-American front line, south of Soissons, during the early hours of the German July offensive, and acquitted themselves.

This is the first instance in which any considerable number of American engineers took an active part in the fighting, except on that occasion in March when some of the American railway construction engineers fought shoulder to shoulder with the British.

GALLIVAN ATTACK ON PRESIDENT PROCLAIMS October 12th as Liberty Day

By International News Service.

Washington, Sept. 20.—President Wilson this afternoon proclaimed October 12 next as "Liberty Day." He requests that on that day the citizens of the United States celebrate the anniversary of the discovery of our country in order to stimulate a generous response to the Fourth Liberty Loan.

All employees of the Federal government who can be spared are to be excused from work on this day to join in the celebration, the proclamation stipulates. The proclamation follows:

"Every day the great principles for which we are fighting take fresh hold upon our thought and purpose and make it clearer what the end must be and what we must do to achieve it. We now know more certainly than we ever knew before why free men brought the great nation and government we love into existence, because it grows clearer and clearer what supreme service it is to be America's privilege to render to the world."

The anniversary of the discovery of America must therefore have for us in this fateful year a peculiar and thrilling significance. We should make it a day of ardent rededication to the ideals upon which our government is founded and by which our greatest heroic tasks are inspired."

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do appoint Saturday, the 12th day of October, 1918, as Liberty Day. On that day I request that the citizens of every community of the United States—city, town and countryside—celebrate the discovery of our country in order to stimulate a generous response to the Fourth Liberty Loan.

Commemorative addresses, pageants, harvest home festivals, or other demonstrations should be arranged for in every neighborhood, under the general direction of the Secretary of the Treasury in cooperation with the United States Bureau of Education and the public school authorities.

Let the people's response to the Fourth Liberty Loan express the measure of their devotion to the ideals which have guided the country from its discovery until now, and of their determined purpose to defend them and guarantee their triumph.

For the purpose of participating in Liberty Day celebrations all employees of the Federal government throughout the country, whose services can be spared, may be excused on Saturday, the 12th day of October, for the entire day.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The German Government of Metz is under direct fire from American guns of large caliber. Assistant Secretary of War Crowell said members of the House Military Affairs committee today when they conferred with him and other officials of the War Department.

Although no formal ruling has been made, indications today were that an official order would be issued.

Both departments are anxious to derive means by which relatives and friends may send the soldiers Yuletide packages, but officials said it would depend entirely upon mail and shipping conditions.

At the same time they held out little hope that it would be possible to change the tentative decision that the letter will have to forego commemorations from home.

Americans Capture
3 Raiders from Austrian Imperial Royal Regiment
By HENRY G. WALES.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army on the Lorraine Front, Sept. 20 a military communiqué from the American-Austrian command on the Meuse-Moselle front attempted to raid the German lines northwest of Vailly, but was repulsed.

The Americans captured three of the raiders—all Austrians attached to the Imperial Royal Regiment of Vienna.

The patrol was very active on the whole and the American squads of our men are operating right up to the new Lorraine line.

SuperGun Used by U. S. Army

Berlin Official Report

American troops in the Lorraine campaign are bombarding Metz, the great German fortress in Lorraine, with a long-range cannon, it was officially announced today by the German government.

The statement says that shells from the supergun have been falling in the city since the middle of September.

"Such a bombardment has been long expected," it said, "and now, from a point south of Pont-à-Mousson to the west of Metz, the shells are falling, therefore to be in no way considered as a surprise."

The statement also declared that the evacuation of the St. Mihiel salient, has drawn away the German troops from the Metz front.

"The supergun is a conspicuous phenomenon of the present battle in front of Metz," it said.

The general advance of the French, British and Serbians through Macedonia for its purposes. These have come up to staff officers to mean:

- 1—That the object of the tremendous activity on this long forgotten front is not the punishment of Bulgaria or the emancipation of smaller states, but the isolation of Turkey.
- 2—To enforce the maintenance by Germany of a large army to assault Turkey and to keep Bulgaria in check from that side.
- 3—To force Turkey to abandon the greater portion of her resistance to the Allies, and to have them come up through Asia Minor to threaten Turkey from that side.

In its broader aspect and linked up with the other moves which are being made by the German staff at home, the present fighting in Macedonia is perhaps the next important development after the exploits of the American staff, whose speciality is the observation of the war as one of the members of the staff, whose purpose is President Wilson.

It is not too much to expect the military possibilities of early realization that Turkey would throw up the sponge.

SHIPYARD SLACKERS TO BE RUSHED INTO THE MILITARY SERVICE

SHIPYARD SLACKERS TO BE RUSHED INTO THE MILITARY SERVICE

Piez Tells Senate Committee Crowder Rule May Apply to Other War Industries

Washington, Sept. 20.—New regulations being drawn up by Provost Marshal General Crowder provide that any exempted shipyard workers who shunt himself for more than two and a half to three days per month without a good excuse, shall be immediately inducted into the military service.

This is one of the methods that it is to be provided for dealing with slackers in the shipyards, but other essential war industries as well.

In taking this step, Provost Marshal General Crowder will put into effect the drastic policy of the Jones amendment to the modification of which was rejected in conference when General Crowder asserted that he wanted to have the power the amendment proposed to confer.

1,000 IN ONE SHIPYARD. Piez told the committee that in one shipyard one thousand workers had been dismissed in three weeks for slackening.

"Was there anything to prevent their going to another shipyard and getting work?" Senator Randall inquired. "Were they just idle?"

"No, but that is a problem we are working on," Piez replied. "They were, of course, immediately removed from the emergency fleet exemption list."

Piez said that of the 360,000 employed in shipyards, only 4,000 had been exempted. Provost Marshal General Crowder had agreed to allow exemptions for 60,000 men within a short time, he added.

HOG ISLAND CONDITIONS. Piez was questioned on his alleged statement in Philadelphia that at the present rate of progress only 50 per cent of this year's program would be carried out.

He said that Hog Island has become a refuge for drift evaders and supplied many jobs for half players and others, as has been alleged by labor leaders who want some way of aiding the emergency fleet corporation in turning these men out.

Chairman Fletcher. "This condition hardly conducive to efficient work at Hog Island."

Evidence showed that Hog Island workers were capable of riveting at the rate of thirty-eight rivets an hour when competing for a prize, but that immediately after the contest period was over the riveting averaged dropped back to seventeen rivets an hour.

USE QUINCY CLUB AS INFLUENZA HOSPITAL.

To accommodate the scores of influenza patients that have overcrowded the Quincy City Hospital, the Neighborhood Club building on Glenmont road, Quincy, has been taken over by the Board of Health. Fifty beds have been installed there and the Fore River Hospital, and the temporary hospital was ready for occupancy today. Six deaths have so far been reported as the result of the epidemic, and several of the pneumonia cases at the hospital, brought on by grippe, are considered very serious.

LIEUT. LUKE, U. S. FLIER, DOWNS TWO FOE PLANES.

With the American Army on the Lorraine front, Sept. 20.—Lieutenant Luke of Phoenix, Ariz., destroyed two German aeroplanes and a drachen observation balloon during one spectacular sortie over the German lines. He already had shot down several balloons.

The Germans are now using a new model two-seater fighting plane on the Lorraine front. The machine is unusually fast climber. The aviators wear parachutes which enable both of them to jump to safety in case the plane is shot down.

COV. BECKMAN CHEERS WAR CHARITY LEADERS.

Providence, Sept. 20.—At a meeting of the heads of the seven war charity drives today at the State House Governor Beckman spoke on the coming drive for the $170,000,000. The Governor complimented the heads of the different organizations that are to conduct the drive for joining in one big family and predicted great success for their united efforts.

TOUCHES COPPER KETTLE AND DIES FROM SHOCK.

Morris Maronkey, twenty-seven, of No. 10 Balsam street, was killed in a factory in West Pitt street, South Boston, when he touched a copper kettle in a washing machine with his hand while holding a portable electric light in the other.

ROOMERS UNREGISTERED; THEIR HOST FINED $100.

Franklin Dinsmore, a lodging house keeper of Main street, Charlestown, was fined $100 in the Charlestown court today for not complying with the law to make his roomers registered. He appeared in court held for his Grand Jury in 1918.

LAWSON'S DAUGHTER HELPS HIS SENATE CAMPAIGN

INFLUENZA AT MAXIMUM IN BOSTON

But Death Rate Is Showing Decrease, According to Commissioner Woodward

parents from a few hours to four days. The greatest means of prevention is of checking this outbreak appears to be the isolation of all known cases, and the isolation of all persons who show symptoms of a beginning of the disease. To make this effective all persons who show any of the above symptoms should be immediately sent home from their place of employment.

AVOID CROWDS. We advise that all persons ill with influenza should receive competent medical advice and should remain in bed until fully recovered from their illness. It is essential that people avoid all places where overcrowded or unsanitary conditions might exist, and that they avoid all places where people who are coughing and sneezing, or who show signs of a contagious inflammation of nose or throat.

Seven deaths from influenza and four from pneumonia comprised the epidemic mortality reported to Boston for the period between 11 p. m. last night and 10 p. m. today.

The number of deaths from the two diseases during the past twenty-four hours varied from 10 p. m. Thursday to 10 p. m. yesterday was forty-two. This did not include army and navy victims.

The eleven deaths for the first half of today's report include five army and navy victims, and six from the total leave six civilian deaths, of a half-day basis from the daily figures since last Saturday.

Health Commissioner William C. Woodward believes the epidemic has reached its maximum in Boston. He said today:

DAILY DEATH TOLL. "I believe the epidemic has reached its maximum. The chances appear to be that we shall keep along at about the same level for several days, while the maximum may vary a little up or down, but there is a decided chance for the better before next week."

The daily death tolls from pneumonia and influenza in Boston since Saturday, not including army and navy victims, are as follows:

Saturday	21
Sunday	24
Monday	29
Tuesday	41
Wednesday	42
Thursday	42
Friday	46
Saturday	42

The new list includes the deaths of children between the ages of one and five years and three children. This is the first time.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas on Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble may be relieved by the use of a few drops of LITTLE'S BILEMAGNET.

It is due to the fact that the stomach is a sac of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is an exceedingly dangerous and distressing condition and should be treated at once.

Either they can go on a limited diet and suffer from the effects of indigestion, or they can eat as they please in food and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bilemagnet at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer, or more reliable stomach remedy than Bilemagnet. It is a natural and is not a drug. It acts on the stomach and is not a stimulant. It is a powerful laxative and a couple of five-grain tablets after each meal will keep the bowels regular and the stomach healthy.

There is a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the food digests naturally and healthfully without need of pills or artificial stimulants.

Get a few ounces of Bilemagnet. Regulate your eating habits. Avoid food that is indigestible. It is not a drug. It is a natural and is not a stimulant. It is a powerful laxative and a couple of five-grain tablets after each meal will keep the bowels regular and the stomach healthy.

Do what buying you can in September

Fall and Winter stocks were called in early, and are now in full October readiness. There are many reasons for buying early this season. You get first choice—important because much cannot be replaced. You save money—replacement prices will grow higher on the great majority of the things you will purchase. You take no risk in buying early because radical changes are not in good taste in war-time. You get longer wear out of your fall clothes while they look new. Buy early. There is much to gain, nothing to lose.

TO BUY—TO SELL—OR RENT

If you are in the real estate market—either to buy, sell or rent, for a home or business property—be sure to consult regularly the real estate advertising columns of the Boston American. The misfortunes of war have thrown many residences on the market and forced the sale of many business properties. And there is no better way of getting the pick of the most desirable "buys" than by following the majority in a total of 2,332, as shown by the straw vote, the Gallivan majority in a total of 1,400 would amount to 2,230. The vote showed that of the nine wards included, all but two went strongly for Gallivan. In South Boston, where Congressman Gallivan makes his home, the sentiment as indicated in the straw vote, was overwhelmingly in his favor. The straw vote shows also that Mr. Gallivan will not only win in the ward in which he lives, but in the ward in which Mr. Curley formerly lived. There is strong anti-Curley sentiment manifested, although the poll of nine precincts showed a Curley majority of 111 to 81.

GALLIVAN WINS IN AMERICAN'S STRAW VOTE

RESULT OF CANDIDATE

The result of the AMERICAN straw vote taken from a representative portion of the voters in each precinct, was as follows:

MUST REMEDY BOSTON FLIER RAIL SERVICE, SAYS BOARD

Smaller Communities Lack Facilities: 48-Hour Ticket Plan a Failure

Many of the smaller city State communities outside the Greater Boston zone now have few passenger train facilities, even for necessary traveling.

Railroad freight service has been decidedly inferior for three years, but the freight situation has improved under federal control.

The 48-hour limit on railroad tickets is inconvenient, makes congestion at ticket windows and causes extra work.

These points are features of a lengthy report issued today by the Massachusetts Public Service Commission upon the general question of railroad conditions in Massachusetts under Federal control.

In regard to the physical condition of the roads, the commission quotes from a report made by its inspector of railroad equipment on August 13, last, as follows:

NEGLECTED RAILROAD WAGES.

"From 1914 until the railroads were taken under federal control, the freight and passenger equipment was in general poor condition on account of the inability of growing necessary labor and material for its maintenance. Since the government assumed control to the present time, no appreciable improvement is evident for the same reason as stated above."

The commission suggests increased wages as a means of securing the best of the railroads.

On additions and betterments the commission reports:

"Reconstruction, accompanied by the reconstruction and improvement of the passenger and terminal facilities in Boston, further modernization of passenger equipment, extension of black signal system, the further elimination of grade crossings are all projects which ought ultimately, in the not far remote future, to be undertaken."

The collection in passenger train service, chiefly in the past two years, have not reduced traffic, but have "concentrated" it. Labor and fuel have been saved, but not in proportion to the reduction in train mileage.

SPENCER CORPORAL MISSING SINCE AUG. 16

Spencer, Sergt., 28—Corporal Edward A. Talbot of Battery H, 60th Heavy Artillery, has been missing in action since August 16, according to a telegram from the War Department received by his wife. Corporal Talbot was formerly a Warner man, and his wife Mrs. Alice Talbot resides at 207 1/2 Union street, Boston.

FIRST TO HIT GERMANS

Joseph Bligh, Home on Furlough, Shot Fox from Aeroplane; Twice Wounded

The first American boy in a United States outfit to fire a machine gun from an aeroplane against the Germans is back in Boston. He is Master Engineer Joseph Bligh of the Fourteen Engineers, the first American Regiment to go across in July, 1917.

Bligh, the English-Tennessee called him "Blighy" in his Boston on a furlough from the United States military hospital at Colonia, N. J. He was wounded in the left leg and ankle on May 17 at Arras by machine gun fire from a Boche aeroplane, and again a week later while in a base hospital at Enghien. Nearly a thousand persons were killed, wounded or suffered shell-shock when the Boche planes bombed the hospital.

Two Swiss chevrons of gold adorn Bligh's uniform. He is decorated on his right sleeve denotes that he was twice wounded in the service. Bligh twice wounded in the service. Bligh twice wounded in the service.

Bligh trained for aviation at the old Squantum flying field. When it seemed that the war would be over before he could see service as an aviator, he enlisted in the Engineers, where he was going right along.

On December 17, 1917, Bligh accompanied Captain Tupper, a Canadian aviator of the 120th Flying Squadron, on a raiding expedition in the Arras area. Before it was forwarded to France.

STILL OPEN TO PEACE, SAYS VIENNA

By International News Service. Amsterdam, Sept. 20.—The Austro-Hungarian peace offer is still open, it is announced in Vienna, according to a dispatch from that city today. The official statement in Vienna discussed the so-called "rash statements" made by A. J. Balfour, the British foreign secretary. Immediately after the Austro-Hungarian note was put out, adding: "Only by discussion and free expression is peace possible."

'Proud of My Brave Boy,' Says Mother of Lt. Putnam

Upheld by her pride in the gallant sacrifice of her dead boy, Mrs. F. H. Putnam, the widowed mother of Lieutenant David S. Putnam, the American "ace" who was shot down Wednesday in France by German aviators, today expressed a feeling of heroic selflessness. She did not falter in her grief as she commented bravely on her son's heroic death. Mrs. Putnam, at her home in Newton, said: "I was a beautiful dream for my son—gliding down to mother earth with our lives after having finished his work for his beloved country. My grief is not unlike that of other mothers whose sons have made the supreme sacrifice. I am proud of my brave boy."

BOLSHEVIKI, LED BY GERMANS, DEFEATED

By International News Service. London, Sept. 20.—A severe defeat has been inflicted upon German-led Bolshevik forces in Northern Russia, according to an official announcement given out by the new North Russian government at Archangel and received here this afternoon. It follows: "On Wednesday German-led forces were defeated severely at Kholmogory, 100 miles west of Kholmogory. The result of the fight was forty miles eastward of the frontier of Finland. "A thousand rifles and many boats and horses were captured."

Overthrow German Militarism, Says Austrian Paper

London, Sept. 20.—The Vienna Arbeiter Zeitung publishes the following editorial comment on the Austrian peace note. "The statement in Vienna and Berlin still really believe that all these attempts to work on the people in the West by mere Army and Navy are any sort of 'success'." Unfortunately the people on the other side of the Atlantic do not believe the words of our ministers—and in that regard they are not very different from the people on our side of the Atlantic.

LABOR OPPOSES ANY 'SECRET TREATY'

By International News Service. London, Sept. 20.—Representation of labor at the peace conference which opens the present war, the holding of a world labor congress and a formal protest against the conclusion of the war for any secret treaty were not in accordance with President Wilson's "Fourteen Points" are the principal declarations of the International Labor Office.

Eight Live Kennedy Stores in New England

No Wool Available for Civilian Needs

When Present Stocks Are Gone

So says the War Industries Board, substantiating the warning we have several times given the public. It is officially stated that no more wool will be released for civilian use, and when the present stocks of all-wool fabrics and clothing are exhausted there will be no more all-wool clothing for civilians.

Copyright 1918. The House of Kuppenheimer

In order that that time may be postponed as long as possible, we and other reputable and patriotic dealers have been preaching and practicing conservation for many weeks past. We have been advising our customers to buy only what clothing they actually need, and then to buy the best they can afford in order that it may give long service and lasting satisfaction.

Probably no other store is so well prepared for this crisis as we are. In expectation of it, the Kennedy Stores long ago anticipated their requirements for many months in advance, contracting for immense quantities of goods at away under present prices, so that we are now prepared to supply our customers' needs with high-grade, all-wool clothing for a year to come.

But we shall not take a single cent of extra profit out of our advantageous position. As we bought this merchandise, so shall we sell it—at far less than current market prices. We're in business for something else than mere money-making and we'll make that fact more apparent than ever this season through value-giving so extraordinary and unprecedented that no other store can even approximate it.

New Fall Suits are $20 to $65

Attorney-General Atwill, Able and Experienced

Mr. Charles R. Wright, member of the Governor's Council, has written the following interesting letter to one of our Massachusetts papers. It explains itself:

I note that you favor the candidacy of Mr. Allen for Attorney-General. I regret that I did not attempt to see you before you had so decided. The Governor and Council have frequent occasion to confer with the Attorney-General. Mr. Atwill has impressed us as a man of great mentality and a lawyer of unusual ability. I have known no public servant more diligent in his work. His preparatory legal experience contrasts most favorably with Mr. Allen's. The latter is an attorney, has been a member of the House for four years. Mr. Atwill served three years each in the House and Senate, six years as Assistant District Attorney and four years as District Attorney in Essex before he became Attorney-General.

The Commonwealth, as you know, has enacted much unusual legislation, as has the Federal Government, since the war began. Mr. Atwill has been called upon to familiarize himself with this law to interpret and to apply it. I think all State officials who have dealt with him will agree with me—he has done this work exceedingly well and most painstakingly. All other reasons aside, I think it would be a serious matter to replace him at this time with a new and inexperienced man.

I write this to no hostile spirit to Mr. Allen, whom I know pleasantly. The handicaps that I think he is under may possibly be removed by time, but they seem to me serious.

I take the liberty of asking you to be good enough to consider, if you will, these suggestions before opposing Mr. Atwill's candidacy more vigorously. For I know, from what you have told me, that you intend, as far as you can, to support for re-election efficient public servants.

The AMERICAN endorses Mr. Wright's estimate both of the importance of the office of Attorney-General and the ability of Mr. Atwill to fill it. It is undoubtedly the most important office next to that of Governor, and if other things are equal, can be better filled by a man who has had experience in that office than by a man who has not.

Mr. Allen has rendered distinguished service in the fish investigation, but so has Mr. Atwill. It is scarcely likely that the people of Massachusetts will swap horses in the middle of a stream, when the horse which will be abandoned in the swopping is the horse that has performed every task satisfactorily.

Frank P. Walsh of the War Labor Board

The munition workers who refused to accept the award of the Taft-Walsh War Labor Board, appointed by the President to adjust the differences between employer and employee concerning conditions of labor, and who refused to work, have now returned to their duties and have submitted their grievances to the War Labor Board.

In this, their final decision, the munition workers have acted patriotically and wisely. They have returned to keep up the production of war material for our soldiers and they have submitted their cause to a Board composed of as competent representatives of the cause of labor as ever before occupied important official positions for the settlement of labor disputes. In the whole country, not excepting their own leaders of the American Federation of Labor, there is not a man more industrious, able and sympathetic with the just demands of labor than Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City, who was a distinguished lawyer before he undertook to protect the interest of the workmen on this Board during the war. He must have made an immense personal sacrifice in undertaking this responsibility.

In Mr. Walsh's hands the cause of any body of workmen is absolutely safe. He is probably the hardest working man on the Board. He probably has had more experience in the advocacy of causes even than Ex-President Taft. His fearlessness and independence are known throughout the country. So long as their cause is just no group of workmen need hesitate to submit it to the Board on which Frank P. Walsh guards their interests.

Many Looking to Walsh

It is curious to observe how the candidates for Governor cling to the coattails of Ex-Governor Walsh in their advertisements and how, on the stump, each candidate tries to show the Democratic voters that his candidacy will most help the candidacy of Mr. Walsh for United States Senator.

Both sides understand that it is the unanimous wish of the Democratic party that Mr. Walsh may be the next United States Senator from this State.

Not only do the Democrats in the State unite in this fervid wish, but thousands of Republicans and Progressives and Independents join in the sentiment. Massachusetts has been misrepresented in the Senate for years. She is not a reactionary State. The majority of Massachusetts citizens want to hear the voice of a representative raised in the Senate once more with the independence of Charles Sumner. We want a man in that great body who, when they are wrong and unpatriotically grasping, will say to big business what Charles Sumner said to the cotton manufacturers.

Mr. Walsh must feel these days that after all if republics are ungrateful, democracies are not unappreciative of men who have kept their self-respect and have faithfully served the public in public office.

Letters to the Editor

Monumental Nerve
Editor BOSTON AMERICAN.
Monumental nerve is the only way I can designate the attempts made by railroad security holders to force the United States government into trying to duly authorize them to collect damages after the war.
To think that for a minute they should imagine they have any special claim that is denied men who not only are compelled to give up their business, property and income, but their very lives for the cause we are fighting for without any thought of their relative being given a chance to collect damages for their death or losses is silly.
I know men who have lost their entire business because of the war,
and they have not a chance on earth of seeing the nation to pay them damages.
But it is as ever with the railroad crowd. They have run things to suit themselves, and now they cannot understand why they should not have special privileges, even in war time.
Deep down, it is an attempt to defy government ownership of the lines after the war. They are fighting hard—these special privileges—because this last attempt was too raw for even consideration.

Bridge Needs Paint
Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:
I wish to call the attention of these in charge of bridges between Boston and Chelsea to the rusty condition of the Meridian street bridge.
In view of the various economies practiced now in many lines, I think it would be the part of economy to preserve that very useful bridge from utter erosion by giving it a good scraping and a coat of paint.
I have no doubt that this condition has somehow slipped the attention of the proper authorities and that they would have noticed it had they the opportunity that I have in frequently riding over it.

SHOTS DRIFT FROM THEIR TARGET COURSE

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Will you please explain the effects of rifling of a gun on the projection? If the rifling is right-handed, does the projectile drift to the right, or does it travel in a straight line?"—LIVING HUNTS Standard Ship Yard, Mariner's Harbor."

ALL elongated projectiles drift,
in a slightly curved path, to one side or the other of the vertical plane of the trajectory,
the direction of the drift corresponding with the direction in which the rifling turns. Another way of putting it is to say that the projectile drifts aside from the line in which it is fired, the direction of the drift being to that side toward which the upper edge, or surface, of the spinning projectile turns as
the latter rotates on its longitudinal axis.

The Explanation
For instance, suppose that the grooves of the rifling, as they advance through the bore of the gun
from the breech to the muzzle,
have a right-hand twist, i. e., turn the same way as the hands of a watch, then the projectile, which will acquire a twist in the same direction as it passes through the barrel, and will retain that twist on leaving the muzzle, will, as soon as it comes out into the air, begin to sheer off toward the right. But if the rifling of the gun is left-handed,
the projectile, after leaving the muzzle, will sheer or drift toward the left.

The amount of deviation produced by the drift is, for short ranges, so slight that it may be neglected, but in long-range firing
the drift must always be allowed for. It increases with the range,
and, according to some authorities,
is approximately proportional to the square of the time of flight of the projectile.

Some Actual Figures
Measured measures of drift for a 12-inch rifled gun are 1 1/4 yards at a range of 2,000 yards, and 100 yards at a range of 12,000 yards.
The results of drift are complicated by windage, which is the deviation caused by air currents blowing across the plane of the trajectory, and at long ranges this may become very serious. The amount of drift also varies with the pitch of the rifling, the rule being "the greater the twist the greater the drift."

The exact cause of drift is considered not yet entirely understood. The paths of all rotating bodies projected rapidly through the air are subject to deviation in one way or another. A popular example is presented by the "curves"
of a baseball, the more or less complete control of which has been the fame and fortune of many celebrated pitchers.

A Counter Agent
To explain the drift of the projectile, the principle of gyroscopic action is invoked.
In the case of an elongated projectile rotating swiftly around its axis at right angles to its line of flight, the gyroscopic action comes into play somewhat in this way.
As the projectile leaves the muzzle
the air presses obliquely on the under side, thus tending to throw the nose upward, and to turn the axis at right angles to the line of motion. But the rotation changes this into a gyroscopic precessional movement, the result of which is to keep the point of the projectile directed a little toward that side of the plane of the trajectory which corresponds to the direction of rotation. A full explanation demands a mathematical analysis which cannot be undertaken here.

AFFLICTION CAUSES HER TO LOSE INTEREST

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

THIS day was dark and depressing. Fog did rain swept across it early now and then, and the first promise of Autumn was in the air. I was carrying in my mind a letter a girl had written me asking for advice as to conditions in her life and her work and how to better them. I turned into a restaurant to get a cup of tea and some hot buttered toast dusted with spice, and walked toward the window in the corner, where, sitting at the table there, I could look out on life passing continuously before my eyes. Every person going by was an experiment in humanity. My answer might be there.

But it was not outside. It was just at hand, as it nearly always is.
I found it in the woman sitting at the table I sought. I gave it as she gave it to me.

A Girl Led Her

I had not noticed her at first;
but now it took a moment to acknowledge to myself the change I saw in her. A change that was almost electric, radiant in quality.
She looked prosperous and at peace with the world, and I, who had not seen her for some time, was not only dazzled by her gay greeting,
but by her charm, her good looks
I had not remembered them.
I recalled that she had been an unobtrusive, colorless sort of person, not particularly interested in anybody or anything, absorbed in her profession and always a bit expressed by a visible responsibility.
But now—she had changed all that.
"You look as if you had found the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow," I said. "Show me the way," I begged laughing.

"Every one finds his or her own way there," she smiled. "But I'll tell you the girl that took the lid off that pot of gold which symbolizes success for all of us."

"It was a girl in my employ. I had never thought her good-looking, but I depended on her. She was resourceful, could always suggest a way out of a problem and was not afraid to suggest it. Yet, following good old Shakespeare's advice, 'assume the name of the beast,' she was a cat. She had a beauty, and really, before long, I with every one else, acknowledged that she was. She had good hair, of which she made the most; fine
teeth and brown eyes, no much expression to them, but these are all the attributes that make a girl
in making a professional beauty."

"She had a voice like a peacock,
—a voice that was always clear,
walk, yet she knew how to dress
herself, and, while not concealed,
she bore the outward signs of an inner sense of perfect security;
as the French say, she possessed herself. Yet she was the most dominant spirit of the office. She never discussed her own affairs, nothing she did. Never belittled herself, her belongings, nor made fun of her friends, and she always drew attention to good work done."

"She made me ashamed of myself. I never had just the same I wanted. My clothes never suited me. I did get anything that I liked, it was never a subject for congratulation, as it was with her.
I took it as a matter of course.
Nothing was ever as I would have liked to make it, in my work or belongings. Fate—circumstance—some malin—some always to blame for this, or else I found a concrete some one with whom I might find fault."

"I contrasted myself with this girl. Surely she wore the magic spell of fairy land."
"But how to achieve that inward serenity and good-fellowship with myself that she possessed? I saw by gazing everything I had.
It was hard at first, but now I good qualities in the things I had deemed otherwise. But before long
I had my reward."

An Observation
"A man came up to me one day
and said 'What's come over you?'
You've developed into a good salesman. You never were before.
You used to let people buy from you, or order your work from you.
Now you have the same old same old business gets fascinating. You never seemed to take enough interest in your personal power to have in what you could do to make the other fellow believe that he wanted it—needed it—how could get along without it. Glad you've got up to it. Makes the thing worth while."
